PROMINENT JAPANESE OF HAWAII

DR. TOSHIYUKI MITAMURA

Dr. Toshiyuki Mitamura was born at Wakayama, Japan, in 1854. After receiving his primary education at his home, he went to Tokyo in 1870, where he entered the English school of Mr. Fuzunawa, which has grown to the present Keio University. After graduation, he entered the medical department of the Tokyo University and studied medicine and surgery with Dr. Wm. Williams. Mr. Fuzunawa was one of the leading educators in Japanese civilization.

In 1874 he was connected with the Naval Hospital of Japan under Dr. Willard. Since 1874 he has been a professor in Kagoshima Medical College. During the years 1877 and 1878, when the civil war broke out, he having been on the side of the great Saigo, was engaged in battle. After peace was established he was engaged as a professor in the local medical college at Wakayama.

In 1879, when cholera prevailed in Wakayama, he did his best work for the suppression of the epidemic as director of the detention hospital. The following year he was called back to Kagoshima, where he was appointed the director of Kawashima Hospital and Hirayama Hospital, which position he held until 1884, when he became the director of the medical hospital of Kishiwada, in the district of Osaka.

In 1887, having moved to Tokyo, he founded Akasaka Hospital with Dr. Wm. Whitney, of which he was director, and at the same time was a member of the medical staff of Tokyo police headquarters, until 1889, when he was invited by the Immigration Bureau of Hawaii to locate here.

Coming to Hawaii in 1889 he located on Kaula as the physician for the Japanese on plantations. It was during these times that he was voted by the Japanese as one of the ten prominent Japanese on the islands. In 1899 he moved to Honolulu and began to practice his profession, which he has continued until the present time. He has always been active for the public good. When the bubonic plague broke out in Honolulu in 1900 he did remarkable service for the public in conjunction with other Japanese physicians. It is said that the establishment of the Japanese department of the post-office in Kakaako during the period of the plague was due to his earnest endeavor.

He was not only active in his professional life, but also in journalistic, evangelist, and social work. In 1901, with earnest Christian friends, he published a daily paper, the Honolulu News, and was successful in purifying the general tone of the prevalent Japanese newspapers in Hawaii. The paper was transferred to Mr. Hanzo Tsurushima, and is now named the Hawaii Daily Chronicle, one of the most popular local papers. Being a Christian himself, he has been deeply interested in evangelist work, and he was not less active in social work as a member of the Anti-Saloon League and Civic Federation.

Since 1907 he has been earnestly endeavoring to relieve all the Japanese lepers on Molokai and to have them sent back to their home country to spend the remainder of their life there. He has also been successful in the line of philanthropy, co-operating with Mr. Y. Ishii, the Japanese Benevolent Society, Japanese Medical Association, and the Japanese community of Honolulu and others.

Dr. Mitamura is a brother of Dr. T. K. Mitamura, a retired Surgeon General of the Japanese Imperial Navy. His son, Yitaro Mitamura, who will graduate this year, is a student in the medical department of the University of Michigan.

He comes of a family of physicians and his ancestors were attending physicians to the Daijingu family for many generations. He was one of the three winners of a prominent Japanese physician contest last year. He discovered the cholera case on River street last December and reported to the Board of Health so that prompt and effective measures were taken to prevent any spread of the disease.

How Panic Helps Trade

STATISTICS OF FEDERAL BUREAU THAT SHOW FORWARD TENDENCIES

The immense reduction of imports and the increase of exports which the recent figures from the Bureau of Statistics indicate are analyzed as among the effects of the recent financial flurry and the assurance of better times. Imports in December were $12,000,000 less than in the same month of the year before. Exports for December, 1935, exceeded imports by just about $15,000,000.

The first effect of stringency in this country was a reduction of customs receipts. That meant of course that less things were coming, and therefore less money going out. No country can get along so nearly on its own products as the United States. When it becomes necessary to buy luxuries abroad the American people buy necessities at home. Promptly the balance of trade gets better, and times begin to improve.

The revenue reports and the Agricultural Department reports, taken together, constitute the most optimistic showing that could well be made for the new year 1936. The Agricultural Department receives reports from all parts of the world on weather and crop conditions. There has just been issued a statement that, taking the world as a whole, the conditions have not been favorable for crops of this year's yield. Weather has been adverse, and the outlook is that the deficit will be unusually large in Europe, Asia and South America. This is construed to mean that there will be an unusual demand for the surplus from the United States, and presumably that prices will be much better than they now are.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—Representative Hayes is pressing the House Committee on Foreign Affairs for a hearing on his Japanese exclusion bill. The committee has promised to give a hearing soon, possibly this week. Hayes and Kahn will submit arguments, and may be assisted by Representatives Hawley and Ellis of Oregon and Jones of Washington.
